BARUCH NAMED TO ATOM POST

Truman Nominates Financier As U. S. Member of UNO Control Group.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—President Truman is nominating Bernard M. Baruch as United States representative on the United Nations atomic energy commission.

White House Press Secretary Charles G. Ross said the nomination of the elderly financier and presidential adviser will go to the senate tomorrow.

Baruch, 75, one of the nation's elder statesmen, was chairman of the war industries board during the first World war. The late President Franklin D. Roosevelt called upon him frequently during the last war for advice and for special missions.

One of his best known services in World War II involved a solution of the rubber crisis.

One of the nation's wealthy men, Baruch frequently conducts conferences on a park bench in Jackson square.

In selecting Baruch, President Truman followed the lead of Great Britain in appointing a non-scientist to the commission. Sir Alexander Cadogan, permanent undersecretary for foreign affairs, recently was named to represent the British.

The atomic energy commission was created at the last London meeting of the United Nations. It will consist of one representative from each of the 11 countries making up the UNO security council, plus a representative of Canada, which shares the atomic energy secrets with the United States and Great Britain.

Chiang's tribute came as he addressed the closing session of the Kuomintang (National party) congress.

Auto Industry, Rarin' To Go, Won't Stop for Model Changes

By DAVID J. WILKIE
Associated Press Automotive Editor

DETROIT, Mich., March 18—The nation's automotive industry, preparing for the biggest production drive in its history, does not plan to take time out this summer for model changes.

Having produced not more than 250,000 passenger automobiles in nearly nine months of reconversion effort it will press for volume during the remainder of the current year with the models already in production.

Ford Leads Way

First of the manufacturers to definitely announce there would be no 1947 cars this year was the Ford Motor Co. In a statement Sunday, the company said any new models will have to wait until after the first of the year. This announcement is expected to be followed by disclosure of similar plans on the part of other car makers.

Since the industry began its effort last July to get back into peacetime automobile manufacture Ford has assembled about 100,000 passenger units; Chrysler has turned out about 55,000 and General Motors 25,000. The latter probably will begin shipping cars again around April 1.

During the last 10 years the industry customarily has closed down for from six weeks to two months in mid-year to make model changes. An indication that it planned to make no model changes this year was given a fortnight ago when the Automobile Manufacturers association announced that the industry had abandoned earlier plans for a national automobile show in October this year.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Bishop Michael Ready of the Columbus Catholic diocese believes American "appeasement of Soviet Russia" jeopardizes the best interests of this country.

"Those involved in appeasement of the Soviet Union are not representing the best interests of the people or the country."

Gov. Lausche Calls Bakers to Huddle About Bread Slice

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., March 18—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today called a conference of bakery representatives and state officials here tomorrow to consider a dilemma presented by a federal order reducing the size of a loaf of bread 10 per cent to obtain more grain for shipment to starving peoples abroad.

The governor pointed out that Ohio law prohibited sale of a loaf of bread weighing less than 15 ounces, while the federal order would permit such a loaf to be reduced 1.6 ounces. Larger loaves can be reduced without reaching the legal minimum.

Lausche said he called the conference at the request of William Spang, vice president and general manager of the Spang Baking Co., Cleveland, and governor of the American Bakers association.

Attending the meeting will be Spang, Roy Ferguson of Columbus, secretary of the Ohio Bakers association; State Agriculture Director John M. Hodson and George Owen, head of the state's food and dairy division.

MINE LEADER URGES CUT IN OVERTIME PAY

Operators' Spokesman Asks Extra Rate Begin at 40 Hours Not 35.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—Charles O'Neill, bituminous coal operators' spokesman, today proposed that overtime pay in the industry begin after 40 hours of work a week, instead of the present 35 hours.

O'Neill also demanded a guarantee from John L. Lewis' United Mine Workers against wildcat, or unauthorized strikes.

O'Neill was replying to Lewis' nine generalized demands and his accusations of "neglect" in providing for safety and welfare for 400,000 bituminous miners.

Opening their case against Lewis' demands for wage increases and other benefits for 400,000 coal miners, two representatives of the coal operators flatly disagreed with the claims the chief of the United Mine Workers has made thus far in the coal wage conference.

Deny Accusations

Harry M. Moses, a member of the operators' negotiating committee, speaking for captive mines owned by steel companies, declared:

"We deny your accusations, and on this record charge you with having attempted deliberately to create by understandable design a false case upon which to rest your royalty or welfare demand upon this conference."

Lewis last week emphasized demands that the industry set up a miners' health and welfare fund. Pressing this, he soft-pedaled his general proposal for increased wages and a shorter work week.

"The safety history of the industry," Moses declared, "is replete with strikes, legislatives battles, and plain refusals of the mine workers to accept closed lights, smoking regulations, safety hats and shoes, new rules or any rules whose only purpose was the safety of the employe."

Charges Distortion

Moses said that the special welfare and hospitalization committee of the United Mine Workers, which reported last week on a survey of the industry, had made an "ex parte report" designed to "distort the records."

The UMW committee accused the industry of neglect and failure to enforce safety precautions and of causing the deaths of 28,000 miners and the injury of more than one million others in mine accidents in the last 14 years.

Preceding Moses was O'Neill. Summarizing the economic factors involved, O'Neill urged that the UMW complete a new working contract with a "minimum of friction and no work stoppage."

O'Neill, a former miner and former UMW member, criticized what he said was government interference in labor-management relations in the industry.

UNRRA Head Sees War Peril

Lehman Warns Food Failure Can Sow Seeds of Conflict; Praises Accomplishments.

By The Associated Press

ATLANTIC CITY, March 18—Director General Herbert Lehman of UNRRA said today that failure to furnish relief for the world's hungry millions "can well sow the seeds of further armed conflict."

In an address prepared for UNRRA's fourth council session, the retiring chief of history's greatest mission of mercy said that "we have demonstrated that the men and women of many nations can work together in harmony for the common good of mankind.

Shows The Way

"The organization is not perfect," Lehman added, "nor have the results been perfect, but the United Nations should recognize the basic fact international cooperation is possible and can be effective."

Lehman told the delegates from 47 nations that UNRRA had accomplished the following:

1. By the end of March more than 7,000,000 tons of supplies will have been shipped "and the scale of our operations is increasing daily."

2. Since the first of September, approximately 725,000 displaced persons have been repatriated with the help of military authorities.

3. "Were it not for the present food crisis, UNRRA could undoubtedly have claimed an even greater record during the battle of the winter of 1945-46."

Lehman acknowledged that "despite vigorous efforts by the administration, it has not been possible" to keep out of UNRRA's camps for political refugees, "many, who, it is believed, may be collaborators."

"Lest there be some misunderstanding," he added, "I desire to state emphatically that the responsibility for determining who among the displaced persons are collaborators x x x rests squarely with the Allied military authorities."

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, March 18—Frank Leslie Pool, 80, of Upper Sandusky, was instantly killed when he was struck by a westbound passenger train as he walked across the Fifth street crossing of the Pennsylvania railroad tracks here Sunday at 12:57 p. m.

It is believed he was enroute to the home of his son, Russell G. Pool, a block away.

Mr. Pool is deaf and apparently did not notice the approach of the train. The watchman at the tracks said if he had gone one step farther he would have been out of the path of the train. The train did not stop. The engine crew apparently was unaware of the accident.

Mr. Pool was a farmer most of his life, living in Eden township, east of Upper Sandusky. He retired 26 years ago, and had lived on West Wyandot avenue in Upper Sandusky. He was born in Crane township, Wyandot county, Nov. 8, 1865. He was four months past his eightieth birthday anniversary.

He was married to Mary Ellen Hilderbrandt in Upper Sandusky on Nov. 13, 1890. His wife died in 1941, and he had been living alone. Surviving are three sons, Clyde E. Pool and Lewis W. NOT DISLOYAL, VOWS GOERING

Nazi Denies Quitting Hitler, Says Germany Had Never Threatened Americas.

By The Associated Press

NUERNBERG, Germany, March 18—Hermann Goering defiantly told the international military tribunal today he never was disloyal to Hitler; if the dictator had been assassinated, Goering said, he would have taken control of Germany and fought the war to a bitter end.

He testified that the Nazis never considered any offensive action against North or South America.

His profession of loyalty to Hitler came under cross examination by Justice Robert H. Jackson of the United States.

Jackson asked Goering whether he sought to prolong the war after he realized it was lost and also about Hitler's political will, written immediately before the fuehrer's apparent suicide, accusing Goering of disloyalty, secret overtures to German enemies and attempting to seize power.

Denies Betrayal

"I neither betrayed Hitler nor in that period negotiated with even one foreign soldier," said the chief among the 22 ranking Nazis on trial as war criminals.

"This document (Hitler's will) rests on an unfortunate mistake. It grieves me that the fuehrer in his last hours believed that I could be disloyal to him."

Goering asserted that Hitler got

NAM HEAD DEMANDS END TO OPA CONTROL

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—The National Association of Manufacturers called upon congress today to end price controls on all manufactured goods, contending that OPA is "fostering inflation, enabling black markets to flourish" and slowing down production.

Robert R. Wason, president of N.A.M., opposed a year's continuation of OPA as asked by President Truman in a statement prepared for the house committee.

He termed "false" the administration claim "that only OPA stands between the people and disastrous inflation."

Chester Bowles, economic stabilizer, criticized N.A.M. as an "irresponsible pressure group" in an earlier appearance before the committee, and predicted continued price increases and shortages and additional inflation.

U. S. RELATIONS WITH RUSSIANS GROWING TENSE

Only Week Left Before UNO Council Resumes Parley; New Reports Flow in.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—With a week remaining until UNO's security council meets, the Iranian crisis neared the breaking point today—and Russian-American relations tensed perceptibly.

A stream of reports brought these latest developments:

1. The American vice consul at Tabriz, Robert Ronson, was detained half an hour at a Red Army post last Friday. This was three days after the United States told the world that instead of pulling out of Iran Soviet forces were moving through Tabriz deeper into that country. The Russians expressed regret, and the state department here said it attaches no significance to the incident.

2. It is reported the Russian diplomat in Tehran had warned Premier Ahmed Quvam Es Sultaneh that Russia would consider it an unfriendly act for the Iranian government to reopen its case before the United Nations security council.

3. American officials' best estimate of the possibilities at the moment is that the Russians may try either to break Qavam's resistance or pull off a coup d'etat to put a new government in power.

4. The tenor of American-Russian relations was set meanwhile by Secretary of State Byrnes with his assurance on the one hand that the American government does not intend to enter into a military alliance with Britain and his insistence on the other that the United States to do this he called for extending the draft law beyond its May 15 expiration and the enactment of peacetime military training.

See Direct Link

Diplomatic authorities saw a direct link between this and the Iranian crisis.

As American officials view the situation, if UNO's pledges of security for all nations mean anything at all they mean that Russia has no right to maintain an Army in Iran beyond its agreement with the Iranian government.

This is the critical point of the forthcoming test in the security council.

White House Again Denies Forewarning of Churchill Blast

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—The White House reiterated today that President Truman had no advance knowledge of Winston Churchill's Missouri speech suggesting a future course of Anglo-American association to preserve peace.

Press Secretary Charles G. Ross told a news conference Mr. Truman "had no advance knowledge" of the content of Churchill's speech and "didn't know what he was going to say."

Ross' assertion followed a St. Patrick's day speech by Sixth Secretary Byrnes reflecting the idea of a separate American alliance with either Russia or Great Britain.

The remarks, Ross said, were prompted by a radio commentator's assertion that Mr. Truman knew all about what the former British prime minister would say at Fulton, Mo.

Five-Game Card Opens Gold Medal Cage Tourney at Y

Seven More Battles Billed On Double Program Tonight

LaRue, Y-Indus, McMillen, Martel, Morral and Green Camp Winners in First Round.

Five teams were eliminated Saturday night in the first session of the Gold Medal tournament and a sixth team, Green Camp Panthers advanced by default when Banko's Grill failed to put a team on the floor.

LaRue Merchants knocked Burson's of Carey out 42 to 25, Y-Indus added another win to their long string by stopping Kirkpatrick 59 to 30, McMillen stayed in the running by virtue of a 45 to 17 win over Solomon's Grill, Martel Elevator sent Richwood Independents home 45 to 38 and Morral Supply Co. eased past Roecher's Bakery 44 to 40.

Seven Games Tonight

Seven games are scheduled for tonight.

LaRue Merchants started the evening by knocking Burson's of Carey out. Burson's had been rated one of the favorites with a good season's record, and a roster of well known players. LaRue took a first quarter lead of 8-7, and the game continued to see-saw back and forth with LaRue still out in front 15-10 at half time. From that point on the Carey team seemed to lag. LaRue, with Bob Jones and Jack Davis leading the attack, drove far out of danger.

Y-Indus lost little time in gaining their 32nd victory of the season in 35 starts when they jumped to a first quarter lead of 14-2. The scoring slowed the second quarter, but both teams gave a good shooting exhibition in the third quarter. Kirkpatrick with their rushing zone gave the Y-Indus team plenty of trouble in the first half, but they failed to hit on their shots to stay in the ball game.

High Point Man

Mulvaine of the winners was high point man with 22 points, getting many good layup shots from fine passing on the part of Dick Holliday.

McMillen encountered little opposition in moving in to the second round. The Feeders with Feaver hitting for 6 field goals the first half rolled up a 20-6 first half lead. The cause for Solomon's Grill was given a bad jar when Edgington hurt his knee in the third quarter and had to be taken out of the line-up. Feaver and Shellhorn contributed 30 points to the score of the winners.

Martel Elevator and the Richwood Independents put on a real battle on the lower gym. The game went back and forth with Martel maintaining the quarter leads, but the score never varying a great deal. Reeder of Martel stole the show, controlling the rebounds defensively, and pushing in 20 points to be second high scorer for the evening.

Morral Starts Fast

Morral Supply Co. defeated Roecker's Bakery in another good game. Morral started strong with Williams and Ferguson leading the attack to build up a 13-7 first quarter lead. The second quarter all Roecker's with everyone on the team contributing, but Morral came back after the intermission to put the game on ice. Roecker's rallied in the last quarter, but fell short by 4 points.

Tonight's battles send a strong LaRue Merchants team against the Kirkpatrick ex-highs which is a combination of Kirk and Claridon high school seniors. This game promises to be a thriller as both teams have good scorers in their lineups. Y-Indus will take on Shorty's Pro's from Marysville who have added three seniors from the Marysville High school team, winners of the Mid-State league. McMillen will battle J. D. Bain Store of Prospect as the third game. Morral Supply Co. will play the Marion Vets a recently formed ball club with a lot of former basketball stars in this locality. This talent will furnish the entertainment in that order on the lower floor. On the upper floor at 7 Delaware Independents will take on Universal Cooler; this game should be good as both teams are evenly matched. At 8 Isaly Dairy will take on Caledonia K. P. In the last game Martel Elevator will take on DeMolay Alumni, a team composed of former Harding High school players and members of the DeMolay.

IRISH GRA-Y CAGERS DUMP PEARL STREET

Will Play North Main Team Tuesday for Title.

St. Mary Gra-Y basketball team defeated Pearl Street Saturday 33-24 in the first game of the series to determine the city champion. St. Mary will play North Main, who drew a first round bye, Tuesday at 4:15 on the top floor at the "Y". Winner of this game will be Gra-Y champion of Marion. The loser of this game will take on Pearl St. on Friday at 4:15 to determine the winner of the runner-up trophy.

St. Mary definitely meant business at the start as they jumped out to an early 9-2 lead. The winners played a pressing defense, bottling up both of Pearl Street's ace scorers, F. Roebuck and Kasotis. So good was the defense that Roebuck was not able to get started until the second half. Roebuck was high scorer for the game with 13 points while Kilbury led the winners with 10 points.

Kenton Students To Present Health Show

Students of Kenton High school will present a health and physical education demonstration Friday, March 29 at the school. The program, which begins at 7:30 p. m., is under the direction of Martha Thierman and Victor Dorris, former Marion football coach.

Included on the program are mass calisthenics, boxing and wrestling, relays, tap dancing, group games and stunts, square dancing and tumbling.

BLAME IT ON THE PIN SHORTAGE. Everything was going along all right for little Vince Sebastian (right) until he tossed his Sunday punch at Joe Ippolito. It didn't work quite the way he had expected. Instead of his opponent, it was Vince's pants that began to fall. The small fry battlers were photographed taking part in a New York boxing carnival for kids when the bout was called a draw because of a drawstring.

Training Camp Highlights

Bucky Walters Is Easy Pickings as Reds Drop Two to Cards; Tribe Spills Detroit.

By The Associated Press

TAMPA, Fla., March 18—Bucky Walters' right arm again was the cause of considerable concern today at the Cincinnati Reds training camp.

Just a few days ago Manager Bill McKechnie was saying he believed the veteran hurler, plagued by a soreness in his money flipper last season, was going to be all right and was counting on him for his share of victories to help boost the club out of the second division.

Yesterday, however, Walters definitely was easy pickings as the St. Louis Cardinals took both ends of a twin bill, 6-3 and 3-2, by virtue of three-run homers in the ninth innings.

Walters, the losing pitcher in the opener, gave the Cards six of their 10 hits, including the payoff circuit clout by veteran Lou Klein, in the last three rounds. Taking over with a three-run advantage, his control was spotty and when he did find the plate the ball had little on it.

Rookie Bob Rhawn's four-master with two mates aboard beat Frank Dasso, chunky youngster, in the nightcap.

Walters was undisturbed by the shellacking. "My arm felt okay," he said. "Guess I didn't have anything on the ball."

Ken Burkhart, an 18-game winner for the cards last year, started the second game and was touched for seven hits and both Cincinnati runs in the three innings he toiled. Dain Clay, Redleg outfielder, banged out a home run.

Tribe Faces Yankees

CLEARWATER, Fla., — The Cleveland Indians attempt today to derail the New York Yankees' "A" train, featuring Joe DiMaggio, Tommy Henrich and Charley Keller, in a Grapefruit circuit game.

Sepkowski will be sidelined for three days while Evers will be out of action for 12 or 14 weeks, officials reported.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., — After playing seven exhibition contests in eight days, the New York Giants were told to take it easy today. The Giants went 10 innings yesterday to beat the Boston Braves 14-9 with a five-run spree in the extra frame.

TWO SWEDISH STARS BARRED AS AMATEURS

By The Associated Press

STOCKHOLM, March 18 — Sweden's famed running twins, Gunder Haegg and Arne Andersson, have come to the end of their record-breaking trail.

The two outstanding middle-distance racers, who hold eight world standards between them and who came within less than two seconds of achieving the four minute "dream" mile, were declared professionals yesterday by the Swedish Athletic association board and barred from amateur competition for life.

In one of the most sweeping actions in amateur sports history, the board, after holding a secret two-day conference on an island in Lake Maeler, not only ruled out Haegg and Andersson but also penalized seven other runners of lesser reputation for infractions of amateur regulations.

While the board did not reveal the amount of money Haegg and Andersson were accused of receiving for participation in track meets, a reliable source told The Associated Press they acknowledged recieving 40,000 crowns (approximately $10,000) when asked to make a report to the association. Swedish sports writers generally estimated their financial rewards "at more than 75,000 crowns" ($18,500).

Springfield's Giants Sign Up Ohio State Loop's "Baby Boss"

By The Associated Press

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 18—Don Ramsey, 25-year-old catcher and infielder, is the Ohio State league's youngest manager, says Robert Ireland executive secretary of the Springfield Giants. Ramsey was signed as playing manager of the Giants Saturday to replace Earl Wolgamot who now is managing the Trenton, N. J., Class "C" team in the Interstate league. Ramsey, a recently discharged naval veteral, formerly was manager of the Cincinnati Reds farm clubs at Cordele, Ga.

Newark Has Giant

Newark—Raymond H. Buckner of Detroit, prospective right fielder for the Newark Moundsmen, may rob Ohio State league home run kings of several four baggers. Buckner stands 6 foot 7 inches and has been known to reach up and snag potential home runs out of the stratosphere.

Bob Boken, formerly of the Washington Senators and the Chicago White Sox, has been signed as the Moundsmen's fourth pilot in four years. Shipped out of the majors after two years because of a batting average of only .235, Boken, whose favorite position is third base, proved one of the American association's most dangerous hitters.

Mike Dattero, a right hander, and Jack Wilson, a southpaw, are two of the pitchers signed to play with the Moundsmen this year. Datero won six and lost eight last year while Wilson won one and lost three.

New Dayton Boss Praised

DAYTON—Dayton's new manager Frank Parenti is a "prize manager" in the opinion of Buzz Wetzel, parent Cleveland Indian scout. "He'll do a great job with kids, because he's patient, knows inside baseball and is a hustler and scrapper," Wetzel says. However, Dayton and all clubs will have trouble getting players to sign for low salarted class "D" berths, he thinks.

Parenti has announced the signing of Robert Juretschke as an outfielder. The 21 year old Chicago boy has two months experience with the LaCrosse, Wis. club where he hit .289 before the Army interrupted his baseball career.

Other players signed are: Harold Holdych of Berwn, Ill. and John T. Dorgan of Dayton, pitchers: Robert D. Horner of Canton and Howard Watkins of Dayton, catchers; Earl Hochstetter of Chicago and Juretschke, outfielders and Eddia Kautz of Dayton, third baseman.

Eight Top Cage Teams Set To Fight for State Titles

Two Favorites and Two Dark Horses Left in "A" Field; Games Start Friday.

By HAROLD HARRISON
AP Sports Writer

COLUMBUS, O., March 18 — The last mile stretched out today for the eight teams still seeking Ohio's 1946 state high school basketball championships.

The Class "A" field included a pair of season-long favorites—Middletown and East Liverpool—and two teams that weren't given much chance to get this far along in the elimination series—Akron North and Toledo Woodward.

There isn't a single former state champion left in the Class "B" field but the favorite's position apparently will go to Waynesburg, which has won 26 straight games without a defeat. The others are once-beaten Farmer, Worthington and Bradford, the last two somewhat in the dark horse class.

Here is the way they'll go to the Friday night in the final tournaments at Toledo and Springfield:

Class "A" at Toledo

7:30 p. m.—Akron North (14-6) vs East Liverpool (23-3).

8:45 p. m.—Middletown (24-0) vs Toledo Woodward (19-4).

Class "B" at Springfield

7:30 p. m.—Farmer (30-1) vs Bradford (26-2).

8:45 p. m.—Worthington (24-3) vs Waynesburg (26-0).

The championship game in Class "A" will be at 8:15 Saturday night. The Class "B" title tilt is carded for 8:45 Saturday and it will be preceded by a consolation game at 7:30, matching the two Friday night losers.

East Liverpool and Akron North will go into the finals with identical tournament offensive and defensive performances. Both have won their previous tournament games by average scores of 45 to 34. Middletown, with the finest defensive record of any of the Class "A" finalists, has won its previous engagements by a count of 52 to 25 while Woodward has a 43 to 30 margin.

Waynesburg will take the top offensive average into the Class "B" event, having scored at the rate of 47 points a game while defensive honors go to Farmer, which has allowed its foes an average of only 24 points a contest.

Two Former Champs

Middletown and Akron North are former state champions, the Middies having taken the crown in 1944 and the Vikings winning in 1935 and 1939. This will be Middletown's third straight trip to the state finals and in meeting Woodward Friday night they'll clash with the team they defeated for the 1944 crown.

Farmer is the only member of the Class "B" cast that never before has been to a state finals.

Middletown had the easiest journey through the regional finals, the the Middies limiting previously unbeaten Hamilton Catholic to 28 shots and winning 34 to 27. East Liverpool had to come from behind in the closing minutes to nip Dover, 27 to 26. Akron North had a 19-point margin over Warren much of the way and won, 38 to 33, and Toledo Woodward spurted sharply in the fourth quarter to waltz Montpelier, 45 to 39.

Magnetic Is Tough

The Class "B" regional finals had the fans in an uproar. It took two overtime periods before Bradford was able to nose out Magnetic Springs, 29 to 27.

Worthington galloped into a comfortable lead over Strasburg but barely staved off the loser's late rally to win, 32 to 31.

The Class "A" teams will move into Toledo Thursday and hold one-hour practice sessions. All of the Class "B" teams except Worthington are expected to drive early Friday.

David Connelly, the Class "A" tournament manager, said any tickets turned back by the competing schools would be put on sale at Toledo Friday—but no one expects any tickets to be turned back.

Each school received 600 and East Liverpool and Middletown in particular, would like to have had that many more.

Muhlenberg-Kentucky Clash Looms in Meet

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK, March 18—If the odds manipulators are right, it will be the Muhlenberg Mules versus the Kentucky Wildcats for the National Invitation Basketball tournament at Madison Square Garden Wednesday, March 20.

For the second successive time Rhode Island State's Rams find themselves in the role of underdogs when they meet Muhlenberg in the opening game of tonight's semi-final round. In a similar shortend situation are the West Virginia Mountaineers who are rated eight points below Kentucky, the tourney's top-ranking quintet, in the second contest.

BRICKER SEES TREND TO G.O.P.

"Decidedly Our Way," Ohioan Says, but Declines To Talk About 1948.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—Former Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio told a news conference today that the political trend is "decidedly our way in our territory" but it is too early early to talk about 1948.

Bricker, 1944 G.O.P. vice presidential nominee and unopposed for the Republican senatorial nomination in Ohio's May primary, came here to discuss coordination of the congressional and state campaigns with his state's Republican delegation in congress.

Asked about his availability for the Republican presidential nomination in 1948, Bricker said: "This is a long, long way off. Our first effort is to get Republicans elected to congress."

Bricker said the reason for what he called the "trend our way" was "dissatisfaction with the present situation and a desire for a change."

Present with Bricker at the news conference were Thomas J. Herbert, candidate for the Ohio Republican gubernatorial nomination, and Fred Johnson, chairman of the state's Republican committee.

Ohio Republicans favor Rep. Clarence J. Brown of the Buckeye state for chairman of the Republican national committee, Bricker said. The post is soon to be relinquished by Herbert Brownell, New York, who managed the Dewey-Bricker campaign in 1944.

Another possibility for the job, Rep. Carroll Reece of Tennessee, has "lots of friends" in Ohio, Bricker said, recalling that Reece served in an Ohio regiment in the first World war.

Asked if he or Senator Taft (R-Ohio) would be in the presidential ring two years hence, Bricker laughed and commented: "Anything about that now would be in the realm of pure fiction. That is in the lap of the gods."

Fazio Is Captain Of OSU Frat Champions

"Chuck" Fazio of 474 Forest street was captain of the Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity basketball team at Ohio State University which took the university championship by winning its eighth straight victory Saturday night.

Fazio, a sophomore in the Education college, is a former Harding High school star, winning letters in football, baseball, basketball and track. He was all-Ohio tackle in football and won honorable mention as an all-Ohio guard in basketball.

He won his letter for football at Ohio State last fall and this year has been named to the first team as the result of the showing he made in this year's winter quarter gym drills.

WASHINGTON, March 18—Julius A. Krug took office today as secretary of the interior and immediately announced that Oscar L. Chapman would be nominated undersecretary.

Chapman, a 49-year-old Coloradoan who has served as acting secretary since the resignation of Harold L. Ickes, has been an assistant secretary almost 13 years.

In a speech which followed, the 38-year-old secretary, last chairman of the War Production board said that during his administration "We'll be guided scrupulously by the will of the people as expressed through congress."

GIVEN $50 FINE

Russell Arnet, 21, resident of the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad camp at Silver and Breen street, was fined $50 and costs in municipal court Saturday on a charge of malicious destruction of property. He was brought in by railroad authorities on a complaint that he had broken out a window in a railroad car at the camp Saturday morning at 12:50 a. m.

RED CROSS WORKER IS COUNCIL SPEAKER

Former Green Camp School Man Addresses Group.

A closer and better acquaintance with young people of other countries through Junior Red Cross correspondence and the sharing of benefits from the less fortunate juniors in other parts of the world were emphasized by Ivan R. Barnhart, field director of the Red Cross Area, Alexandria, Va., in his talk at a meeting of the Junior Red Cross council of the Marion County Red Cross, Saturday morning at the chapter office here.

A large group of student representatives and teachers from the city and county schools attended. Mr. Barnhart, before entering Red Cross work, was superintendent of the centralized school at Green Camp.

Council meetings, Mr. Barnhart pointed out, can do a great deal to foster a democratic spirit and a better understanding between schools. Representatives to the council are "messengers or missionaries who can take new ideas back to their schools."

In discussing the Junior Red Cross work in the schools he said: "Leaders are not interested in adding to an already full school program but wish to correlate and integrate Junior Red Cross work with the already existing school program. All activities should contribute to the overall education of the child.

"Junior Red Cross is particularly interested in developing the proper attitudes and ideals in the child. It teaches him to be of service to his community, his country and the world. Through school correspondence with students of other countries a better international feeling can be fostered. Through the national children's fund medical supplies, powdered milk, toys and other articles are purchased for the unfortunate children of other countries of the world. By working for this fund members have a feeling they have been a service in the world."

Mrs. J. H. Harmon is Junior Red Cross chairman.

PLAN MUSTER DAY DINNER

A meeting of Betsy Ross Auxiliary to Marion Camp No. 32, United Spanish War Veterans, was held Friday afternoon in the American Legion Dugout. Mrs. Beth Monk, past auxiliary president, was in charge in the absence of the president, Mrs. Mercedes Byrnes. Devotions were conducted by the chaplain, Mrs. Hattie Richards. A paper on "The Battleship Maine," was read by Mrs. Marie Wells. Plans were made for a dinner at 6:30 p. m. to precede their next meeting, April 10, in which the men of the camp will join. Marion Camp will hold its annual Muster Day services following the dinner. A social hour followed the meeting with contest prizes going to Mrs. Mary C. Miller. Hostesses were Mrs. Emma Bondley, Mrs. Byrnes, Mrs. Dorothy Howald and Mrs. Monk.

130 ATTEND PROSPECT FATHER-SON BANQUET

PROSPECT—About 130 were present for the father-son banquet held by the Masonic order at the school Wednesday, March 13. The Eastern Star served. Mr. Cartmell, superintendent of the Masonic Home in Springfield, spoke at the program in the lodge rooms.

A quartet from Radnor, Ed Jones, Bobbie Jones, Dave Thomas and Fred Jones sang.

GOERING

his idea of attempted overtures through a "mistake in transmission" on a message between the Vatican and Berlin. He did not amplify the claim.

When Jackson suggested the end of the war could have been hastened by killing Hitler, Goering declared:

"The assassination of Hitler would have brought about my succession. If the opposition had given me the same answer—unconditional surrender and all that was hinted—I would have continued fighting under all circumstances.

Would Have Revenge

"If I had had bombers, they would have been used up to the last minute as reprisals for attacks on our cities."

The number one defendant at the war crimes trial here, taking the witness stand in his own defense for the fifth day, also asserted that Nazi efforts to make an economic penetration in South America were unavailing in the face of competition by the United States and Britain.

"Threatening the American continent was never spoken of," Goering declared.

Goering's denial of the existence of any Nazi plans to attack the western hemisphere came during questioning by Martin Horn, attorney representing Joachim Von Ribbentrop, who strove to show that the former foreign minister actually had been unable to guide Hitler in the determination of German foreign policy.

Apparently striving, as in preceding days on the witness stand, to shoulder as much responsibility as possible for the Nazi's policies, Goering declared that "no one else worked with the fuehrer as closely as I. No one else had the influence I had. Only the fuehrer and myself could conspire. No one else was concerned."

GRASS IGNITED

No loss resulted from a grass fire at the rear of 193 Senate street Saturday. Firemen from Central and the West Center street station who answered the call at 12:55 p. m. said a bonfire which got out of control was the cause.

INTER-CITY LEADERS FALL BY WAYSIDE

Marion Rapid Transit Takes First in Local Meet.

Only leader to hold its place after the week-end Inter-city bowling tournament competition at the Palace Recreation alleys was the Home Service Laundry team of Lima, leaders in the booster class.

In Class A competition, General Industries of Elyria toppled Alpine Village of Lima with 2,823 compared to the latter's 2,743. Vellenga of Bellefontaine, leader in singles since the opening session of the tourney, dropped to third place, with Coss of Cambridge and Carr of Ashley taking first and second places with 678 and 652 respectively. Nuccilarone and DeMarco of Painesville dropped to second place in doubles when Sarchet and Bennett of Cambridge rolled 1,240.

In the first week-end's competition in the women's city bowling tournament at the Marion Recreation alleys Marion Rapid Transit led in team competition with 2,189. Mary Jane Long led the singles with 439 (103 handicap), Lillie Dalton led in all events with 1,336, and Mary Grove and Lillybelle House led the doubles with a score of 800 (75 handicap).

RAYBURN IS HOPEFUL OF DRAFT EXTENSION

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—Speaker Rayburn said today he is hopeful of house passage of legislation extending the draft act beyond the May 15 expiration date.

Leaving a conference with President Truman, Rayburn told reporters "I am not very discouraged over the prospects."

He said the President discussed Selective Service, appropriations and atomic energy legislation with his congressional "big four" at their regular Monday meeting.

The other members of the quartet are Senate Majority Leader Barkley (Ky), Senator McKellar (D-Tenn), president pro tempore of the senate and House Majority Leader McCormack.

Army Home League Plans Drive To Aid War-Torn Countries

A timely appeal for household and personal articles to be sent to women in war-devastated countries of Europe is being made by Salvation Army Home Leagues throughout the country, it was announced today by Captain Mary Nistewics, in charge of the local Salvation Army Corps.

With thousands of women in Marion and the community starting on their pre-housecleaning jobs of cleaning out drawers and closets the Army's home league is asking that they send their discarded pocketbooks, filled with much-needed articles, to the women of the war-torn countries.

Into the pocketbooks may go such items as needles and pins, hooks and eyes, thread, darning cotton, thimble, buttons and bias tape, a washcloth, toothbrush and soap, all of which will spell riches for the housewife whose supplies of such homey articles have long since been used.

The pocketbooks may be taken to the office of Captain Nistewics at the Salvation Army citadel at 141 North Prospect street and she is asking that they be in by April 1. They will then be sent to New York for distribution in the European countries.

This is one of the many post-war activities of the Salvation Army and is a special project of the Home League members.

Navy Opens New Drive for 500,000 Recruits

A new recruiting drive with the goal of 500,000 regular navy men by September has been announced by the navy, according to local navy recruiting officials.

The navy is particularly interested in men of draft age, it was announced. Men can be accepted for enlistment even though they have had their pre-induction physical and been classified; however, once a man has received his notice of induction date it is too late to volunteer.

The navy offers opportunities to learn 50 types of work, from aviation to medicine. The recruiting officer in Marion is located in the post office building.

LOVE'S FAIR HORIZON

By ADELE GARRISON

"FOR the fraction of a second, he glared at her," I told Dicky, with a vivid mirthful remembrance of the dignified heart specialist's face when my mother-in-law told him what she thought of his advice. "Then his lips began to twitch, and the next instant he was smiling indulgently at her.

"'Why not compromise?' he asked her. 'You have children and grandchildren who love you dearly, haven't you?'

A Wry Smile

"'At least they say they do,' she told him with a wry little smile, and he threw back his head and laughed heartily.

"'I don't think you ought to doubt them,' he told her next, 'and you ought to know that you would cause them infinite anguish if you should go out of their lives.'

"'I can see,' he went on, 'that you are the type of woman who makes duty her watchword. Don't you think you ought to consider their feelings and do just a little bit of rusting?'"

"Clever approach, that!" my husband commented. "The old boy's arrow pierced the heel of Achilles, I'll bet."

"I would lose if I took that wager," I said, smiling. "You know your mother's watchword is 'Duty,' and you could see her resistance crumbling into bits.

Will Follow Orders

"'I know,' she said, at last, gloomily, 'and I'm a wicked old woman not to bear this particular cross cheerfully. All right!' she finished suddenly. 'Give me your orders, and I'll follow them.'

"I think if she had been almost anyone else," I went on, "the specialist would have patted her shoulder approvingly. But I saw him give a canny glance at her, and his answering words were unaccompanied by gestures."

"Showing he knows his onions, creamed, or fried," Dicky said. "But what did he tell Mother she could do—or, rather, could not do?"

"She can walk short distances as long as she does not get fatigued or out of breath. She can do light housework, with the same limitations. She must not lift heavy things, must not walk fast or hurry about any work, must bend over as little as possible, and must climb stairs only once or twice a day.

Must Not Worry

"But above all," I finished, "she must not get excited, and must not worry."

"She's had a fine dose of both," he commented. "She was all steamed up about bringing that secret code in to Dad, and when she saw me in this wheel chair, it was a great shock to her. Also," he went on ruefully, "I've talked the arm off her while you've been gone."

I expected his next sentence to be the caustic demand. "What kept you so long?" But to my surprise he did not utter it, instead went on to reproach himself further.

"I should have thought, and made her lie down," he said. "But she never stopped asking questions about my life at camp."

"You haven't a thing to regret," I told him firmly. "You're right about her excitement over bringing in the code, and her shock at seeing you in a wheel chair. Both of those things, no doubt, were the cause of this upset. But your talking to her was like soothing medicine. It probably did her a great deal of good; calmed her down, so that she did not have a severe heart attack, as she otherwise easily might have done. And it certainly did her no harm. So stop reproaching yourself."

"Come here!" my husband said suddenly, and when I had come to the side of his wheel chair, his arms went around me, and he kissed me tenderly.

"Do you know, you're a pretty swell egg," he said, and I glowed at the slangy praise.

But I could not remain by his side, and I drew myself away with a murmured: "So sorry, darling, but I must get hold of Mary right away."

YOUR HEALTH

By HERMAN BUNDENSEN, M.D.

Bed Rest

Nearly every family circle includes some beloved oldster whose gentle wisdom and kindliness add joy to the life of the home, but whose health offers special problems.

If one of these elderly persons falls ill, it is natural for the family to believe that prolonged rest in bed is necessary. This is far from true. Indeed, modern medical men are of the opinion that for most elderly patients the shorter the stay in bed, the better.

According to Dr. John F. Norman of Minnesota, when elderly people are confined to bed, they soon lack the will to make the effort to get up and around. They become hopeless in their outlook and in time even mentally backward. Without some incentive to get back to work or to their homes, these patients fail badly.

The custom of keeping patients in bed for a long period of time is more or less of a tradition. With the improvement in surgery and medical care, it would appear that such prolonged bed rest is unnecessary, may even be harmful.

Once an older patient is up and around, he will, as a rule, feel that there is hope that he is going to get well and he will co-operate better with the physician. Following operations in elderly people, there is a danger of complications affecting the heart, blood vessels and lungs. The danger is far greater for overweight patients than for thin ones.

Blood Clots

In elderly patients after days or weeks of bed rest, blood clots are likely to form in the veins, particularly in the back of the leg or foot. Pneumonia may develop due to a collection of fluid in the lungs, favored by prolonged inactivity and bed rest. Long-continued bed rest may also be harmful in elderly people with heart disease since it not only may lead to congestion in the lungs but also to weakening of the heart muscle.

Of course, no set of rules can be put down for all elderly persons. However, in general, it would appear that prolonged bed rest adds to the risk in illnesses of the aged who already are handicapped and many would do better if they are out of bed early.

Problems regarding care of the old are more important now than ever before because the number of old people is constantly increasing. Due to the rapid strides made in the prevention of disease and death in younger age groups, more people are living to a ripe old age.

Today, in the United States there are over nine million persons of 65 years or more, an increase of 36.5 per cent during the last ten years, a period during which the total population increased only 7.2 per cent.

Thus, with more elderly people whose welfare must be considered, medicine is striving to find better ways of looking after them.

Boyle Discovers Awad—Another "Character"

By HAL BOYLE
AP Newsfeatures Writer

CAIRO—Awad Hassan Aly has only one really bad habit. He likes to wash his feet in the kitchen sink.

That kitchen is workshop and temple for Awad, who looks like a cross between "Little Orphan Annie" and the end man in a minstrel show. He is known variously as "Awad the Great," "Awad the First" and "The Tarboosh Kid."

Hal Boyle

He is a 15-year-old orphaned Sudanese boy, lean and gangling with feet like tennis racquets and dangling hands as big as baseball gloves. He also has a grin as wide as a Kansas sunflower and a sweet and simple soul shining as his own white teeth

It is something of an open question whether "Awad the First" was adopted by a group of Associated Press correspondents here or he adopted them. In any case his realm for two years has been their apartment and his reign is now irrevocably established. He has more titles than an Indian prince—chief cook, bottlewasher, custodian of the broom, mascot, and on occasions, office banker.

Each morning after brewing tea Awad presents his boss, Max Boyd, a budget estimate of daily expenses and the first item invariably begins "food for Awad—six piastres."

Learns Way Early

Awad had to learn early thus to fend first for himself. He was born in a village on the Assam—Sudan frontier. When he was one year old his parents called in a local barber and he notched the baby's face to leave ever afterward the distinct scars worn by these villagers

His father died before Awad's memory begins and his mother died when he was 10. He came to Cairo and helped his brother cook for an Egyptian family until he took up "kitchen journalism."

When you first meet Awad you have an irresistable urge to grab up a plate and catch his hands before they drop off his loose hanging arms and fall to the floor, later you learn those ungainly hands are deft enough at cooking up an appetizing breakfast although he has one weakness as a chef. Since he is a faithful Moslem, and therefore forbidden pork, he dislikes cooking bacon.

"It makes me dizzy," he says—so he usually serves it half raw. Awad will go down in medical history as one of the most consistent benefactors of trichinosis—the disease, not its victims. His own favorite dishes are beans and potatoes and dried date.

Two-Book Man

There have been only two books in his life—the Arabic Phrasebook and the Holy Koran, bible of his faith. Five times a day Awad halts his tasks, kneels on a clean piece of cardboard spread on the kitchen floor, turns his face toward Mecca and prays to his god with the fervor of his guileless servant soul. At night he sleeps on that same floor.

Awad earns four Egyptian pounds a month besides his keep and turns most of it over to his two married brothers. But he has other mysterious sources of revenue such as the sale of waste paper. He also was a war profiteer and earned substantial amounts during the period of the desert battles by selling bottles left by visiting newspapermen after beer parties thrown during visits back from the front.

Most of this money is sunk by Awad in strange investments such as an Arab "chain letter" contribution system under which 15 Arab servants chip in a half pound monthly. Each month one servant collects the full amount and binges it

Not Very Sharp

Awad usually looks like he had just crawled out of a catacomb. But he has under lock and key one respendent uniform for trips to western and gangster movies and visits to his relatives. It consists of a scarlet tarboosh hat, a green sidari jacket and a white and purple striped gallabya robe that would do justice to Pharaoh There are bugles blowing in Awad's heart whenever he wears it

He often lends money to hard pressed native news messengers

Since the Koran forbids him to collect interest he gets return on his investment by compelling debtors to clean the apartment for him. And in this he is as hard a taskmaster as old Scrooge himself

Like many Egyptians Awad worships power and the topdog Once when asked what he did with 10 piastres—40 cents—"baksheehs" or tip money he replied "I saw the king, he was passing by and because I am little fellow I couldn't see over heads of the crowd. So I paid 10 piastres and rented a ladder and saw our king drive by"

His racket now is to collect 20 piastres "baksheesh" so he can hire two ladders "and see the queen too"

Five Champion Farmers Picked

Five States Represented in Choices for Exclusive Agricultural Group.

Special to The Star

AKRON, O., March 18—The Champion Farmers Association of America—the world's most exclusive agricultural organization—today admitted to membership five outstanding farm leaders from as many states.

The new members, selected for important contributions to specific branches of agriculture, are William Gehring of Rensselaer, Ind.; William F. Renk of Sun Prairie, Wis.; J. D. McGee of Morgan, Ga.; Thomas J. Pearsall of Rocky Mount, N. C; and William Richards of Forestdale, Mass. Awards were announced by L. R. Jackson, executive vice president of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Co. which cooperated in the founding of the association in 1937.

111 Members Now

One hundred thirty-one farmers scattered from coast to coast, representing every type of agriculture, are now active in the association.

Nominated by farm leaders and elected by the C F.A.'s membership committee of agricultural authorities, the five new members will take part in an educational program in behalf of better farming, carried out through periodic national conferences at which members exchange new ideas and discuss improved practices After the meetings they make this information available to other agriculturalists in their home areas.

The achievements which brought the five men recognition by the association follow:

Mr. Gehring—Helping greatly to bring the rich muck lands of northern Indiana into heavy production through the application of proper fertilizer, irrigation, crop diversification and highly mechanized farming.

Mr. Renk—Establishing with his three sons an outstanding family farm enterprise which last year from 850 acres produced more than 1,000,000 pounds of beef, pork and lamb on the hoof, 25,000 bushels of hybrid seed corn, 10,000 bushels of Victoria oats and a carload of sheared wool.

Mr. McGee—Introducing a versatile, well-balanced system of farming, centered on peanuts as the chief crop, in southern Georgia.

Mr. Pearsall—Pioneering in tenant-landlord relationships as manager of the 22,000-acre Braswell Farms in eastern North Carolina, by providing modern conveniences and equipment for 1,100 men, women and children on the plantation, and promoting education.

Mr. Richards — Inaugurating large-scale truck farming in the heart of the Cape Cod cranberry country with spectacular success, largely as the result of utilization of fertilizer and green manure crops, plant breeding, irrigation and advanced cropping methods

What's New at Metropolitan?

THERE IS MUCH good news for policyholders in the 1945 record of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company.

Payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries reached a new all-time high of $623,000,000. Mortality among policyholders, excluding war deaths, was the lowest on record. The yield on the Company's investments followed the general trend and declined somewhat. The Company had asset gains which made it possible to revise policy and annuity reserves so as to reflect lower interest earnings. Scales of dividends to policyholders were maintained, and in some cases slightly increased.

Unassigned surplus funds at the year end amounted to $448,600,000 In addition the Company had special surplus funds of $109,400,000, of which $95,100,000 represented a special reserve for possible loss or fluctuation in the value of investments and $14,300,000 a Group Insurance reserve for epidemics, etc. These funds represent an extra cushion of safety for policyholders.

In its report to policyholders for 1945, Metropolitan provides answers to many of the questions a policyholder would be likely to ask if he could make a personal visit to the Company Among questions answered, for example, are . . .

Were there many extra claim payments last year due to the war?

Would longer life for policyholders reduce the cost of Life Insurance?

In what types of investments did the Company put its money?

What does the Company advise about National Service Life Insurance?

In addition to answering these and many other questions, the report gives a financial summary of the Company's operations during 1945. Whether or not you are a policyholder, you will find this report interesting and informative. To get a copy, just write and ask for the Company's annual report entitled, "What's New At Metropolitan?"

DEWITT MACKENZIE
AP World Traveler

[illegible] March 16—Dr. Karl [illegible] president of this storm- [illegible] republic, tells me he [illegible] "the great hope for [illegible] Vienna itself."

[illegible] says the doctor, "is [illegible] be the international [illegible] culture. Vienna has so [illegible] sures of old culture [illegible] be forever a point for [illegible] It is a [illegible] air [illegible] you [illegible] the Au- [illegible] three [illegible] to [illegible] is [illegible]

[illegible] knows [illegible] the [illegible] im- [illegible] That's [illegible] enlarge [illegible] mon- [illegible] We don't [illegible] to restore DewittMackenzie [illegible] many, but we are proud [illegible] cultural heir."

[illegible] it will be clear that [illegible] featured chief of state, [illegible] mian countenance and [illegible] eyes, is by way of being [illegible] salesman. He injected [illegible] for tourists into a long [illegible] which I had with him [illegible] chancellery on Austria's [illegible] position and her hopes, [illegible] it so adroitly that it [illegible] fitting as a new hat for [illegible]

Take Another Look

[illegible] matter of fact I was glad [illegible]

Dr. Renner raised this subject, because it impelled Mrs. Mack and me to re-examine the capital with an expert guide to make a fresh assay of the damage sustained in the siege towards the close of the war. Of course, Vienna was terribly hurt by bombing and gunfire, but a city is like the human body—it can endure grievous injuries and recover without showing many scars.

Now I don't want to inject any over optimistic language into this dispatch. Vienna is heavily damaged, but when we have emphasized that point it can be added that relatively speaking she came through her ordeal pretty well.

You get encouragement for that idea if you make your way around the Ringstrasse, famous as a promenade in days of peace. Along that boulevard stand many of Vienna's noted buildings and it's surprising what a large number have survived the bombardment, in whole or in part. A good deal of repair work already is underway, too, so that you feel the pulse of life, whereas in cities like Berlin, where there has been virtually total destruction, you don't need to be told that they are dead.

Much To Be Done

Vienna's visions of tourists are by no means a mirage, but she has many problems to solve besides the lack of bricks and mortar before those visions can come fully true. Her most pressing difficulty—and this is true of most of the country—is the grave scarcity of food. Many people in Austria are hungry. In some sections they are trying to subsist on as little as 700 calories a day, and that's far below the level that will support health.

This is the second time in a quarter century that Austria has learned the hard way what war means to countries which aren't self-sufficient.

Grim days are ahead between now and the new harvest.

Still, when Austria has surmounted that danger there's no reason why—perhaps in a small way at first—Dr. Renner's tourist dream should not come true. Austria can achieve this dream if she isn't caught in the whirlpool of international politics growing out of realignment of the balance of power in Europe. Austria is in the center of that upheaval and there can be no doubt that her independence of action is involved in the outcome.

The Measure of Value in Funeral Service . . . .

There is one never-failing gauge of the value received in funeral service. It is the memories of that service. The chief difficulty is that it offers no advance guarantee.

One safe way of assuring that value is to be observing when you attend a funeral. Note the surroundings in the funeral home, and whether the service is the kind you would want.

With real air conditioning, the Everett organ and other equipment on the same high plane, The Hughes Funeral Home welcomes such comparison. We will go even beyond that and ask that you first compare cost of our service with any other in the city.

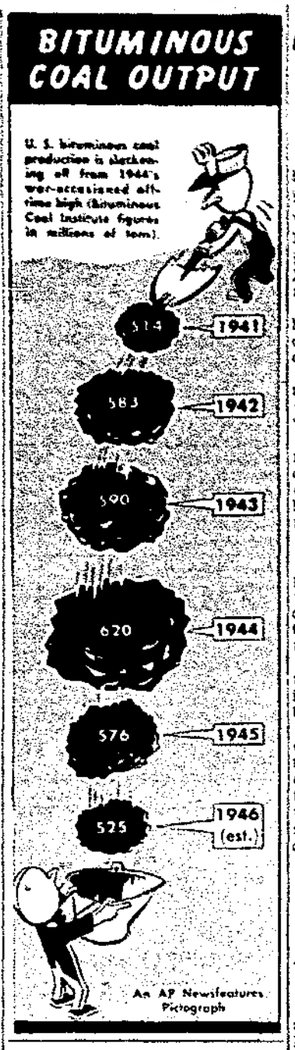
BITUMINOUS COAL OUTPUT



Big Time Operators Control Clever German Black Market

By The Associated Press

HERFORD, March 18 — The black market is so cleverly organized in Germany now that a gang was able to steal an entire trainload of coal in the Ruhr, transport it 200 miles to Aurich near the North Sea and swap it for potatoes.

This flagrant case was disclosed by a British Military Government officer whose position forbids his quotation by name.

The officer said the remarkable theft of hundreds of tons of coal was only one example of the "brains" behind the black market.

"Obviously these gangs are reaching into high railroad circles," he said. "They must have connections with Germans who have been retained to run the rails."

Set Up Squads

Illicit trading has reached such proportions that British occupation authorities have set up special teams of police, working with Germans, in concentrated efforts to trap the ringleaders.

Fantastic stories circulate throughout the zone of sharp dealings, some pure rumor and others based on some fact.

Some gangs have been caught on the highways through systematic road checks. Since these checks have been intensified, though, the marketeers have taken to the back roads where it is almost impossible to track them down.

This senior officer told a reporter that the police effort must be concentrated on the big operators.

"Frankly, right now we don't think the German could live without the black market," he said. "I mean the little operators where a farmer gets permission from the burgomaster to slaughter more pigs than he should. That starts the train of events. A piece of pork is traded for some clothing. The clothing goes to someone else for cigarets. The cigarets brings whisky, perhaps. The whisky is traded to still another person for perhaps a piece of pork. It depends what a person needs.

Admit It's Tough

"Those little transactions never can be stamped out. What we are trying to do is to keep the thing from getting out of hand."

Stiff treatment for the big operator must be the solution, the officer thinks. Some large manipulator must have been behind the black market in Brunswick recently, judging by the flow of illicit goods. So the British troops threw a cordon around one sector and systematically searched every place. They rounded up several thousand persons.

MISSING MILWAUKEE GIRL FOUND UNHURT

By The Associated Press

DETROIT, March 18 — The week-long search for 16-year-old Suzanne Froedtert ended today when police officers announced the Milwaukee school girl had been found in a flat in suburban Highland Park.

Suzanne, whose father, Kurtis R. Froedtert, heads the Froedtert Grain and Malt Co. in Milwaukee, had been missing from a school in Madison, Wis., since last Monday. Announcement of a country-wide search for her was made over a national radio hook-up last night.

Sgt. Noel Larsen of the Highland Park police said the girl told officers she came here voluntarily and had been working in a candy factory since Wednesday.

According to Larsen, Suzanne was found on the information of a man who heard the broadcast and told officers the girl's description fitted that of a young woman who had moved into a nearby flat a few days earlier.

Suzanne left the school last Monday because authorities there had told her they were going to report an infraction of school rules to her parents, now vacationing in Miami, Florida. It was first believed she was on her way to join them, but when she did not appear a search was started and the family offered a "substantial reward."

Larsen said the girl carried a social security card bearing the name of "Sue Muer."

Last night Froedtert asked the police and the federal bureau of investigation to "take active charge" of an investigation because of the possibility of kidnaping or other foul play.

QUIT ROMAN CHURCH

MOSCOW, March 18 — After three and a half centuries of affiliation with Roman Catholicism, the Uniat churches of the Western Ukraine have severed connections with the Vatican and will rejoin the Russian orthodox church. A letter sent to Generalissimo Stalin and signed by church officials said that 216 delegates to a church assembly at Lwow decided "to return to the bosom of our grandfather, the Holy Russian orthodox church."

★ The drug store is but one unit in a complex pattern of businesses and professions, all of which serve the needs of the community. But it is unique in that pharmacy is both a business and a profession.

A business built on service to the sick cannot be restricted to usual "business hours." The need for medicine and sickroom supplies is usually immediate and urgent. 6-WEEK EXTENSION OF DRAFT SOUGHT

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—The idea of a six-week compromise extension caught the fancy of some senators today as pressure grew for keeping the draft alive

Selective Service now is due to expire May 15 The six-week period would carry it to July 1.

With the senate military committee set for a full dress review of the subject tomorrow, there were these devolpments.

1 Secretary of State Byrnes added his pleas to those of President Truman and top Army officers when he told a New York audience Saturday night that this country needs military strength to support the principles of the United Nations.

2 Members of the house military committee disclosed secret testimony of war department officials that the army might fall to only 570,000 men by July 1, 1947, if it has to rely solely on voluntary enlistments after May 15.

3 Twenty-six house members joined in sponsoring a resolution calling for a special study of the draft question by a senate-house committee.

Some members of the senate military committee mentioned the six-week extension, saying privately they thought it would give the Army enough men, taken with volunteers, to meet its interim needs.

The July 1 date would permit the induction of youths presently deferred to finish the current school term and would provide time for congress to transfer job right provisions of the Selective Service act to some other government agency.

Here's What You Can Do About The SOAP SHORTAGE!

IN my hand, I'm holding the trick that'll help keep the soap shortage from getting worse

This country just doesn't have enough industrial fats to make all the soaps, soap powders, soap flakes, and other peacetime goods we need. You and I must do the job that will prevent soap supplies from getting even lower.

By saving every drop of used fats ...by turning them in promptly ...we can help bring more soap back to dealers' shelves sooner.

FIRST STEP
MOM, WE'RE SAVING MORE USED FAT THAN EVER NOW THAT WE HAVE ROASTS...
I COULDN'T BEAR TO THROW IT AWAY KNOWING THAT EVERY POUND I TURN IN HELPS MAKE MORE SOAP.

SECOND STEP
TWO MORE POUNDS THIS WEEK, MR. BROWN!
THAT WILL MAKE ABOUT FOUR POUNDS OF THE SOAPS SO HARD TO GET NOWADAYS. KEEP IT COMING!

Where there's fat-there's soap
Keep Turning In Used Fats To Help Make More Soap

One Crisis After Another

THE PRESIDENT of the United States, now approaching the first anniversary of his duty of dealing with one crisis after another, ducked a chance to pity himself in his latest press conference and said, instead, he didn't think the current international crisis is as serious as some of his countrymen seem to believe it is.

Coming from Mr. Truman at this time such a remark is worth taking apart to see what makes it tick. This is not the first time that Mr. Truman has soft-pedaled the crisis fixation that seems to have the United States in its grip. There are signs that he makes a distinction in his thinking between a problem and a crisis—and if he continues to do this and to get the idea into general circulation a tremendous thing would have been accomplished.

The current problem in international relations, which is to find terms for bringing governments and their peoples together for their common security, may be a genuine crisis, but probably it isn't. Probably it is only a routine problem that could have been anticipated by anyone aware of the inevitable difficulties of reaching workable agreements after the end of the war. The apparent reason why the problem appears to be a crisis to so many of us is our failure to be prepared to take it in our stride.

There has grown up among us a curious notion that everything which goes contrary to our fondest hopes or turns out less than perfect is somehow by that token a crisis and a crossroads. This questionable manner of looking at problems has been encouraged by the government habit of viewing all routine problems as major problems, all major problems as emergencies and all emergencies as crises. The effect has been to depreciate the value of the terms.

The United States has had, to be sure, more than one crisis recently. It had a bona fide crisis when a combination of unscrupulous politics and fumbling economics destroyed public confidence in the early part of the last decade. There was a genuine crisis when this country was forced to fight two major wars at extreme range simultaneously. But in the sense that a crisis is a climax—an instant of decision when everything hangs in the balance—most of the other events that people have called crises have been at worst no more than problems.

In its war-won position as the nation holding the balance of power, the United States is destined to have an endless succession of problems. As Mr. Truman has been learning, they come on such a frequent schedule that it is hard to keep track of them. Because he has been forced to develop a philosophy for dealing with them to keep a semblance of mental balance, he shows promise of helping all of us to buckle down a little more gracefully to our responsibilities.

There are many problems. They concern things at home and abroad. They tempt all of us, and particularly those with some special interest, to start yelling that the dam has broken and everybody should run for the hills. But it is obvious that running for the hills should be saved for the real thing. In the meantime, Mr. Truman has a better idea, which is to forego the bad habit of indulging our worst fears on a daily schedule.

Trojan Horse in Sheep's Clothing

STRAIGHT-FACED statements about the inalienable right of foremen to belong to labor unions would be funny if they did not conceal one of the most arrogant plots ever made against industrial discipline.

Foremen do have a right to belong to labor unions, if they choose. But at the same time their employer has a right to decide whether they shall continue to be foremen.

In some cases it might be feasible for a foreman to try to carry out the plans of management and at the same time to be associated with a labor union. In other cases, it couldn't be done.

When that was the case, would a foreman retain his right not to belong to a labor union? That is where the plot thickens. It started 13 years ago with an obscure passage of the national industrial recovery act which later became widely known as Section 7a. It guaranteed that "employes shall have the right to organize and bargain collectively through representatives of their own choosing."

That guarantee became the foundation of the national labor relations act and the curious perversion of labor's rights that caused many employes to lose the right not to join a labor union if they don't want to join because under the New Deal they gained the right to join one if they did want to join.

Once unions with an ax to grind can establish that foremen have a right to join if they want to, the foremen won't be long in discovering that they lost the right not to join if they don't want to—and management's last means of being management will have been sacrificed to the monstrous legalism that gives rights by taking them away.

News Behind the News

By PAUL MALLON

Strike Settlement Brings Only Muted Cheers.

WASHINGTON, March 18—The volume of national cheering was suspiciously limited at the breaking of the key strikes in motors and electrics. Labor Secretary Schwellenbach emitted one long hurrah, but the initial statements from both sides were definitely vague and completely unenthusiastic, while the nation's cheering section as a whole seemed more concerned about asking who won and what it all meant.

No one won.

The deeper my inquiries led me to the inside of the matter, the clearer it became that the auto strike deadlock was not a matter of difference in wages, or "manpower", or any other advertised details of the conflict—but involved one single question.

That question was whether the CIO was to be a supra-business directorate in the same way it has sought to become a supra-government, in plainer language: was CIO to be the boss and run the business, as it has attempted to be boss of government and run it.

CIO Loses Ground

Clearly CIO lost ground on that proposition. It's initial plan was to open the company books, determine company profits by this and future wage demands and make the concern subservient to union-economics by preventing the company from getting any price increase to meet these demands. These pressure moves appear to have been broken all along the line. The settlement mentions no book inspection and the initial statements avoided also the subject of wages and profits. Indeed, the government announced just before the break that any future auto price increases would be made retroactive and could be collected from the consumer after the sale — which suggests there may be price increases despite the union announcement to the contrary.

The CIO spell of domination has therefore been broken—but for how long? Motors got a two year contract, but Schwellenbach suggested it provided reopening of wage considerations in one year. The steel settlement was for one year. The pattern of all other current labor agreements is similarly one year, based also on the same wage increase. They plainly allow, therefore, for reopening the general strike campaign at this time.

Is this basic settlement then but a one year truce in the CIO campaign to create a supra business dictatorship? Will all the familiar pressures of CIO upon business and government be renewed 12 months hence in the same revolutionary form, or even stronger form?

These are the questions which the settlement left lurking in the minds of thinking people and explains why the nation's cheering was considerably short of enthusiastic.

No Permanent Promise

The agreements failed to achieve a permanent promise of continued production—in short a solution. But it certainly represents the first important progress toward that goal in many a past year. For one thing management did not cave in timidly in the face of pressures to absorb it, but broke them. General Motors stood its ground and thus pointed the way toward a new and democratic technique for management which has been on the run for a long time. Also it beat the strategic union plan to isolate it from its competitors. Ford and Chrysler could not take advantage of GM's troubles because they could not get basic materials for production. Furthermore, the union scheme to bring in Kaiser as a new motors manufacturer, and have him go to the White House and announce his acceptance of the union proposals and become champion for CIO, did not break the company position. The orders of government which would have put the company under the union thumb likewise were resisted.

These developments mark progress in the reconversion of the nation to genuine democratic peacetime ways of freedom from domination.

What is needed next is the development of an era of good feeling in labor relations in which unions will become unions again, and not aspirants for dictatorship of business and civil affairs. Then we will be truly reconverted to democracy.

A NEW USE FOR OLD CONGRESSMEN?

Members of the Southern Dairy Goat Owners and Breeders association have protested Navy proposals to put 300 goats aboard ships participating in forthcoming atomic bomb tests. "Good goats are scarcer than congressmen," they say. "Why not use the latter?"

This a revolutionary suggestion, to be sure, but one which is meeting with widespread approval in non-congressional circles.

Goat milk may not hold a solution to the nation's problems. But then obviously neither does congress.

Weighing the respective merits of goats and congressmen, one must conclude that the former, while in worse odor, are undeniably in better repute.

So much of his program having failed of enactment, President Truman is reported in favor of using certain congressmen in the Bikini Atoll experiments. To see, I mean, if even atomic energy can move them.

There's one thing about it. While a great many citizens look with regret on plans to include goats, dogs, cats and chickens on the test fleet, not even the Society for The Prevention of Cruelty To Animals would complain about using lame ducks.

Protestants Open Moral Film Drive

By The Associated Press

NEW YORK — The Protestant Motion Picture Council has developed a plan to give organized support to movies of good moral quality.

Dr. Daniel A. Poling, editor of the Christian Herald and sponsor of the council, explained that in addition to appraising pictures as in the past, members of various Protestant churches would be asked to organize active box office support for better films.

"This is the constructive American answer to un-American political censorship," Dr. Poling said. He added that the council would form a committee to work with the producing companies in suggesting suitable films and assuring the producers of the council's backing for such films.

Bomb Protection for Civilians

By Jack Stinnett

WASHINGTON—"An analysis of the nature of casualties encountered in the bombing of large centers of population has changed our thinking concerning the best methods for protecting civilians from injury and death in air raids.

"Preliminary reports from Hiroshima and Nagasaki indicate that the number and type of injuries sustained in an atomic bomb attack do not differ significantly from those inflicted upon the Germans in the great fire raids. Indeed, considering the type of protection offered by the steel and stone buildings in Europe as contrasted with the traditional frame construction in Japan, the raids on such cities as Hamburg, Cologne and Essen appear to have been more destructive than the atom bomb attacks on Japan."

This conclusion is an excerpt from an article, "Civilian Health in the Air War," published in Modern Medicine. Although the official Army report on the medical effects of bombing in Germany isn't yet available, the medical journal article was written by the editor-in-chief of that official report: Maj. Cortez F. Enloe Jr., chief of the medical sciences branch, morale division, U. S. Strategic Bombing survey.

Scientific Report

Being a purely scientific report, the article gives only the cold statistics of death, injuries and disease, but behind them is the world's greatest story of human misery—the story of destruction of human life and health by the great bombing raids over Europe.

"It may safely be concluded," write Major Enloe, "that one-half million enemy civilians were killed by Allied bombs in Europe ...A careful check of figures indicates that approximately 422,000 deaths resulted from air raids. Investigation in 24 German cities indicates that 77,500 bodies were completely destroyed or still lie buried in the rubble and are yet to be recorded."

Major Enloe says the use of atomic bombs doesn't alter the significance of the survey's findings except "to make an awareness of the possibilities more imperative." He says that apparently the safest place to locate essential civilian workers is around the edges of cities so that transportation breaks won't affect their work, yet far from strategic targets.

There are reports of the many causes of death and injury; of burns and burial in debris; of carbon monoxide poisoning, of dust inhalation; of drowning in air raid shelters, scalding and chemical burns, and of fright and exhaustion.

Mechanical injuries, it was found, were the most frequent causes of death — that is, direct hits by bombs or fragments, burial in rubble, and fire. It also was found that incendiary raids caused more dead than high explosive demolition bombs. This fact is interesting.

"Since published reports," says Major Enloe, "that the explosion from nuclear fission (atomic bombs) is mainly incendiary in nature, the German experience suggests that more people may be killed than injured in any future total war."

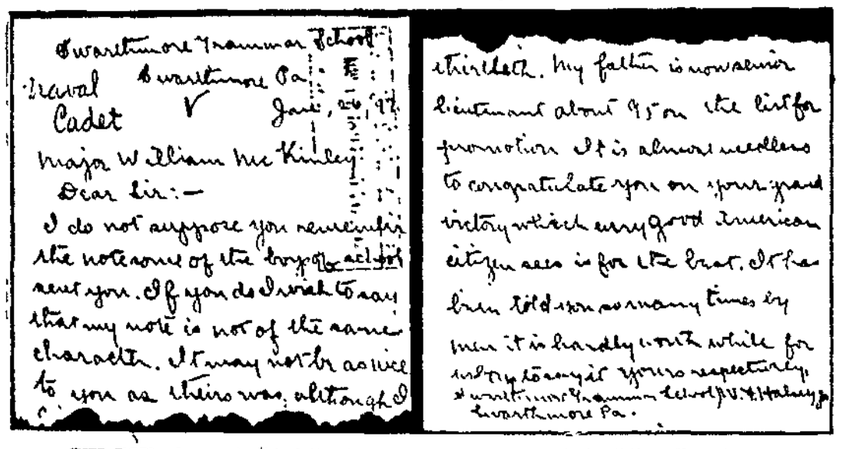
Halsey at 14 Put It Up To President



Swarthmore Grammar School
Naval Cadet — Swarthmore Pa. June 26 '97
Major William McKinley
Dear Sir:—
I do not suppose you remember the notes one of the boys acted sent you. If you do I wish to say that my note is not of the same character. It may not be as nice to you as theirs was, although I think it. My father is now a senior lieutenant about 95 on the list for promotion. It is almost needless to congratulate you on your grand victory which every good American citizen sees is for the best. It has been told over so many times by men it is hardly worth while for me to try to say it. Yours respectfully
William Halsey
Swarthmore Pa.

THE BOY who wrote this letter to McKinley became Admiral William F. Halsey.

By The Associated Press

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — It was a forthright, somewhat wistful letter ending with a solemn "yours respectively" that earned its youthful author an appointment to the Naval Academy by President William McKinley.

The appointee was Admiral William F. Halsey.

Halsey was 14, dreaming of becoming a midshipman, and a "border" as he spelled it—at the Swarthmore grammar school in Pennsylvania when he composed his letter to "Major" McKinley as the President was known before he took office.

He wrote he hoped for an appointment through the President because he did "not know any congressman and the appointment for the district where I live, which is Elizabeth, N. J., is at present filled."

Informing McKinley that his father was a naval officer, the boy observed, "as you know naval officers have not much influence."

But, he added, "the presidents are generally willing to give their appointments to a naval officer's son."

His father, he continued, "is a senior lieutenant, about 95 on the list for promotion. I have been with my father on shore and on shipboard a great deal and have always wanted to enter the Navy."

The original letter is preserved in the National Archives in Washington and only recently came to the attention of the Naval Academy Museum.

Security Without Effort

By Truman Twill

The deluxe version of the bathrobe, a full length all-purpose, all-weather garment called the house-coat, has become the basic unit of female wearing apparel—and it was about time.

These columns lately seem to be harping on the subject of wearing apparel for women. A few days ago it was leg makeup and hosiery. Before that it was women's hats.

But the house-coat is more than another detail of female foibles. It is a national institution with great things ahead of it. It saves time, money and nervous energy. Sooner or later something had to happen. Everything is under control now.

This is said with the conviction of one who has made first-hand observations. Nine out of ten women who dodge out to the front door to gather in the milk, the morning paper and the pup in the early morning do it in house-coats. What the 10th one wears may be almost anything or almost nothing; it doesn't matter.

Inquiry reveals this further fact that most of the women who wear house-coats in the early morning still have them on by the middle of the morning. Sometimes they keep them on all day and never get dressed at all, which is the singular advantage of the house-coat.

It conceals all. It is as handy as an almost sheet. The housecoat offers perfect security with no effort. The thing has the beautiful simplicity of a wrap-around, with none of the tailored lines, especially when it is made of quilted material.

It shuts out drafts and is not translucent. It is not the house-coat's function to be translucent. That is what the negligee is for. The house-coat is for occasions when a lady puts comfort ahead of adventure.

It is for answering the door during a bath. It is for relaxation at the end of a hard day with the typewriter or the mop. It is for warmth and comfort during the amorphous stage of convalescence. It is for every occasion where a sleeping garment would give the public the wrong idea—but the sleeping garment is there all right, all right, all right.

Because it provides a common denominator to make all women look alike when they don't care what they look like, always a touch of elation, the house-coat ranks close to central heating, running water and canned goods in the list of really worthwhile conveniences developed in our era.

It will be a happy day when they make something equally useful for men—something long enough to touch the floor and quilted to hide the figure that ain't there any more.

MAN ACCUSED OF 63 MURDERS ON TRIAL

By The Associated Press

PARIS, March 18 — Black-bearded Dr. Marcel Petiot, charged with murdering perhaps as many as 63 persons, goes on trial in a Paris court today.

The 53-year-old beetle-browed little physician is charged with luring his alleged victims to his home, a large house behind a 20-foot wall, with promises of helping them to escape from Nazi-occupied France in return for a fee.

A miscellany of human remains, including partially burned limbs and bodies contorted in a lime pit, were found by police summoned two years ago to the home by neighbors, who complained of thick, malodorous smoke. The smoke was found to be coming from a white-hot furnace in which human remains were later discovered.

Thirty-nine valises containing 97 petticoats, 57 pairs of socks, 97 shirts and other clothes were found at another house.

Programs on the Air

Commercial-minded radio sponsors, whose most exciting reading matter are radio ratings, had an eye opener recently when the A. C. Neilson company, which samples shows by means of a device clamped right into the radio set, doped out a new way of appraising programs.

On the basis of time and talent, the Neilson people figure that "Dr. Christian" is the most economical radio show program on the air. They estimate that the show reaches 633 homes for each dollar spent.

"Fibber McGee and Molly" is second in line, reaching 569 homes for $1; and Walter Winchell is third with 557 homes for the same price.

The daytime bargains on the $1 basis are "Ma Perkins," reaching an estimated 1,185 homes; "Life Can Be Beautiful," 1,084 homes; "Pepper Young's Family," 1,074 homes, "When A Girl Marries," 1,028 homes; and "Tom Breneman's Breakfast in Hollywood," 1,022 homes.

Plant Victory Gardens, Head of AAA Urges

In a letter to township AAA community committeemen, Frank G. Montgomery, county AAA chairman today urged Marion county residents to plant victory gardens again this year to relieve the world's critical food shortage.

"Droughts in Europe have made the food situation more acute," the county AAA chairman said, and he added, "President Truman has asked us to share a little more of our food than we have been sharing. To do so means victory gardens are still in style this year and wartime efforts on the farm front."

Truman Second Choice for Navy Job Studied

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—Capitol Hill waited today for President Truman's second choice of an under secretary of the the Navy as a possible new tip on unification of the armed services

The reasoning of the lawmakers is that if Mr. Truman selects a man who is strong for the proposed merger, it will be a signal for the Navy to drop its continuing opposition to the single service plan

Behind this is the fact that almost everyone on Capitol Hill expects the new appointee to step into the shoes of Secretary Forrestal, a mainspring in the navy-supported fight to keep the merger from materializing.

POPULAR VOTE ON BRITISH LOAN ASKED

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—A Republican listed among 52 Senators still undecided on the issue suggested today that the voters ought to pass on the proposed $3,750,000,000 loan to Britain

Senator Hawkes (R-NJ) told a reporter that if there were any way of getting the question directly before the people, he would favor that procedure as a guide to congress He conceded, however, that this could not be done short of a time-consuming constitutional amendment.

Hawkes and 51 colleagues who said they are undecided hold the fate of the loan proposal, on which the senate banking committee resumes hearings tomorrow.

An Associated Press poll showed 21 senators, including 15 Democrats and 6 Republicans, presently inclined to support the credit advance. Twenty senators, including 10 Republicans, nine Democrats and a Progressive, were listed as inclined against the loan at this time. Some of these said they might change their minds later.

Thirty Democrats and 22 Republicans said they still are on the fence. Three senators were not reached.

Red Cross Helps Home Folk Keep in Touch with Servicemen

One of the many services performed by the Marion County Chapter of the American Red Cross is that of contacting families of service men and procuring information regarding the men in her service. Hours and days of worry and anguish are eliminated and time saved by early contact with the Red Cross, records of the chapter show. The home service is only one of the departments set up by the Red Cross to aid the veteran and his family. The service is supported through the volunteer contributions made in the annual Red Cross drive now in progress. Marion county's quota of the National Red Cross Campaign Fund is $32,300.

Incident Cited

Records at the local office tell the following story.

A young wife contacted the office of the Marion County Chapter recently, greatly disturbed She had received a telegram from a Army General hospital stating her husband was hospitalized there and was on the critical list. The wife asked what the chapter could do to obtain information for her. The chapter wired the Red Cross Field Director at the hospital and received a reply that the soldier was critically ill and recommended that the wife visit him. The Red Cross at the hospital made room reservations. Since the wife was so emotionally disturbed the local chapter assisted her in obtaining train reservation to the camp and advised the Red Cross at the time of her arrival.

After the wife returned to her home in Marion, the local chapter kept in contact with the Red Cross hospital worker and advised the wife of the soldier's condition.

Later the wife contacted the chapter stating the soldier was not receiving her mail. A telegram was sent to the Red Cross at the hospital asking that the soldier be advised that the wife is writing regularly.

The Red Cross assisted the wife in making two or three trips to visit her husband while he was recovering. After the soldier was discharged from the army hospital, he and his wife contacted the local chapter The soldier explained that he was concerned about his health condition He asked that the chapter interpret his illness to the military. The chapter wrote the Red Cross at the army hospital, advising the Red Cross worker about the soldier's request.

The Chapter later received a letter from the Red Cross that he had received a medical discharge, and that the Red Cross had assisted him in filing a claim for pension.

The ex-serviceman was invited to contact his local chapter regarding his claim for pension or any benefits available to veterans.

PROGRESSIVES JOIN G.O.P. IN WISCONSIN

By The Associated Press

PORTAGE, Wis., March 18—The Progressive party of Wisconsin, a Liberal organization founded 12 years ago, was decided to abandon its party identity and seek to carry out its policies in Republican ranks.

A decision to abandon the Progressive organization and rejoin the Republicans, from which the Wisconsin group was organized in 1934, came at a state-wide conference of party members here Sunday after Sen. Robert M. La Follette, one of the Progressive party's founders and its titular head, recommended the action.

The vote to return to the G O P. came after a stormy six-hour conference.

On the showndown vote, 284 delegates favored rejoining the Republicans, 67 voted to retain Progressive party identity and 51 wanted to join the Democratic party.

Forty-two delegates took the floor to discuss the question before Sen. LaFollette was called upon.

LaFollette told the delegates he was convinced "the Republican party of Wisconsin offers us the best opportunity for the advancement of Progressive principles"

Declaring "only once in 30 years have the Democrats succeeded to power in the state," he said "the Democratic party has able, liberal men but the party now is stalled on dead center."

Since 1928, when a Democratic-Republican coalition was formed to break the Progressive hold, the party has been slipping. In 1938 Phillip F. LaFollette, the senator's brother, was defeated in his campaign for reelection as governor. Since then the Republicans have won more and more offices

The LaFollettes are sons of the late Robert Marion LaFollette Sr., "Old Bob," who in 1922 led the formation of a conference for Progressive political action, a federation of various progressive groups. "Old Bob" polled almost 5,000,000 votes as the federation's candidate for President in 1924.

Iran Rejects Oil Deal Under Pressure

By The Associated Press

LONDON, March 18—Iranian embassy officials in London said today that Iran was prepared to negotiate oil concessions with Russia only on condition that Soviet troops leave the country.

An embassy spokesman said he could neither confirm nor deny reports that Premier Ahmed Qavam Es Saltaneh is at present negotiating with the Russians in Tehran He said it was "highly improbable" in view of an Iranian law prohibiting oil talks until foreign troops were evacuated

"We do not believe that the premier would dare to breach this law," he added.

The spokesman added, however, that since parliament has been dissolved, Qavam is the virtual ruler of the country, but declared the premier would have to answer to the new parliament when it is elected

Embassy officials said there were no Iranian objections to Russia having oil concessions in northern Iran.

Both the British and Americans are understood to hold the view that they should be given an opportunity to negotiate oil concessions on an equal basis with Russia or any other power.

30-Year-Old Rule Protects Capitol's Camera-Shy Solons

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—Today, as every day, from 100 to 300 cameras will be taken from people who have come to gander at the nation's capitol.

Why?

Well, the truth is that many a congressman loves to have his picture taken—but only when he's looking pretty

Or as David Lynn, architect and general manager for the capitol, put it

"Several congressmen object to having their pictures taken when they don't know about it."

The present rule for visitors, no picture anywhere on the capitol grounds or in any of the buildings unless your congressman says it's okay

Oddly many congressmen don't know the rule exists Lynn says, that's because it has been on the books for 30 years, and some of the newer members still haven't heard of it.

Another rule is, no pictures without permission And permission usually isn't granted unless there's a full house

Rep Forest A. Harness (R-Ind) thinks it's a good rule.

"When a picture shows only a few there," he told a reporter, "a constituent is apt to think we're all out playing golf.

"Actually we have so much to do we can't afford to waste time listening to arguments with which we're already familiar or to someone who's talking to get his name in the congressional record

"Some awfully dull stuff goes on on the floor of the house."

Touche, congressman!

Seven Pacific Vets Bury Dog Comrade With Full Honors

By The Associated Press

PH'LADELPHIA, March 18—Blackie, little five-year-old Labrador retriever, probably never dreamed it would happen to him but seven World War II veterans—his pals during 32 months of Pacific fighting—paid him final homage yesterday, a burial with full military honors.

An unofficial "technical sergeant" attached to the 282nd Coast Artillery of the 10th American Army, Blackie was buried in the Cheltenham pet cemetery. A Legion drum and bugle corps played "taps" as his master James Dadario of Philadelphia, placed a tiny stone on his grave

Blackie's Army file shows he was AWOL only once It also says he left 10 heirs in the Pacific

His first stunt was to drop pocketbooks around Cleveland. Each one contained a one dollar bill, his name and a stamped envelope. A note said he was proving people are honest, and asked the finder to mail him the dollar. Later he repeated the stunt in Cincinnati with five-dollar bills.

There were no casualties in the battle of the nylons, although the local gendarmerie had come prepared—25 policemen, a detective car and three ambulances. The policemen just stood around, and no one saw any of them reaching for one of the green-ribboned packages which came sailing from Payne's flailing arm. The green ribbons were in honor of St. Patrick.

Korean Leader Quits as Powers Set Parley

By The Associated Press

SEOUL, March 18—Dr Syngman Rhee, who came out of 27 years of exile to work for Korean independence, announced today his decision to resign as chairman of the American supported Representative Democratic council of South Korea.

The surprise political development in the complicated Korean political situation came as the tenman Russian-American Korean commission prepared to hold its first meeting, aimed at unifying the nation with a view to ultimate self-rule.

Seventy-year-old Rhee gave ill health as his reason for stepping down from his important post. Rhee was the target last week of the Russian newspaper Pravda, which charged he headed a Korean group seeking to grab governmental power and control mining enterprises.

JUNIOR FAIR DAY PLANNED BY BOARD

Wednesday of fair week was set aside as junior fair day by junior fair board directors at their meeting Saturday night in the office of County Agricultural Agent Arthur H. Smith.

Featured on junior fair day, which will be Aug. 21, will be a livestock parade in the morning and style shows by 4-H and home economics groups in the afternoon. Plans were discussed to include floats in the livestock parade.

Junior fair livestock will be judged on Tuesday so that the prize winners may be shown at Wednesday's parade. Officials expect this year's Junior Fair to be the biggest in history.

Committees are now working on premium lists and 4-H clubs and other rural groups are discussing their programs for the fair.

Junior fair board officers include Robert Boyd of Kirkpatrick, president; Dwight Irey of Claridon, vice president, Marjorie Kreis of Pleasant township, secretary and Jerry Timson of Caledonia, treasurer.

BOWLES - ANDERSON BLOW-UP SEEN NEAR

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, March 18—A move by Economic Stabilizer Chester Bowles to check rising cotton clothing prices may bring to the explosive point friction between Bowles and Secretary of Agriculture Anderson.

Anderson appeared today to be on a hot spot as the result of Bowles' order instructing OPA to require larger down payments for cotton to be delivered later.

The order is designed to curb cotton speculation, which Bowles contends has driven up prices for raw cotton and for cotton clothing.

Anderson's dilemma arises out of these circumstances.

Cotton state congress members are opposed to the Bowles order.

In addition, a committee of southern senators told Anderson over the week-end that under terms of the price control act no OPA regulation affecting a farm commodity can be put into effect without approval of the secretary of agriculture.

One senator who withheld use of his name said Anderson had not signed the order and that he "gave us the definite impression he did not intend to."

If he does refuse to sign the order, Anderson is ignoring President Truman's wage-price policy he announced last month.

Bowles and Anderson have not seen-eye-to-eye on a number of price policy matters. Bowles has spoken out against food price increases—although he has permitted some since he became stabilization chief—and Anderson has advocated them. Bowles also is known to feel that Anderson has not come out strongly enough for continuation of food subsidies.

New Non-Explosive Anaesthetics Permit Use of Electric Knife in Chest Surgery

By RENNIE TAYLOR
Associated Press Science Reporter

SAN FRANCISCO, March 18—A combination of anaesthetics which for the first time permits surgeons to use the electric knife in chest operations was announced today by Dr. Phyllis Harroun and Dr. F. E. Beckert of the University of California Medical school.

The combination consists of nitrous oxide or laughing gas commonly used in tooth extractions, and curare, a powerful poison originally utilized by South American Indians to make their arrow-tips more deadly.

Reporting in Anaesthesia, a medical journal, Dr. Harroun and Dr. Beckert explained that the laughing gas puts the patient to sleep and the curare paralyzes the breathing muscles, which must be immobilized during chest surgery.

Even more important, neither curare nor nitrous oxide are explosive. That eliminates the danger that the tiny sparks from the electric knife will cause an explosion in the lungs of the patient.

Ordinary surgical anaesthetics such as ether and cyclopropane are potent enough to put the patient to sleep and paralyze chest muscles, but they are highly explosive. There have been instances in which accidental sparks in operating rooms have caused explosions with fatal results.

The electric knife, as distinguished from the surgeon's scalpel, is advantageous in chest operations because the stream of little sparks not only cuts through the flesh but also cauterizes the wound and seals off many of the smaller veins and arteries which it severs. This helps to prevent excessive bleeding.

There are several other non-explosive anaesthetics but they are generally held to be unsuitable for chest surgery, especially where an operation is prolonged, Dr. Harroun and Dr. Beckert said.

In most operations the chest muscles are permitted to continue functioning so that the patient receives enough air naturally to sustain respiration. When the chest muscles are immobilized, a breathing bag attached to the mouth performs this job.

Dr. Harroun and Dr. Beckert said the curare-nitrous oxide combination had been used in 66 operations with good results.
